I understand that the University Dissertation Fellowship is subject to the following conditions:

- UDF recipients must be registered at Yale working full-time on their dissertations.
- UDF recipients cannot accept teaching assignments at Yale or elsewhere. Part-time employment of up to ten hours per week must be approved by the Director of Graduate Studies and Assistant Dean.
- UDF recipients are expected to be in residence at Yale and must explain the need to perform research or writing in absentia upon accepting the award.
- UDF recipients cannot already have received a dissertation writing fellowship either from Yale or an external source. (The UDF can be held simultaneously with an external writing fellowship under the Graduate School's combined award policy.)
