

FASL 17: Preliminary Program

Friday, May 9, 2008

9:00	Registration/Breakfast
10:00	Polarity Sensitivity in Russian and English	Tatiana Vert Georg-August-University of Göttingen
10:30	Licensing modality in infinitival structures	Natalia Kondrashova University of Michigan
11:00	Intensional genitive case and existential commitment	Olga Kagan University of California, Santa Cruz
11:30	Opening Remarks	Dean Peter Salovey
11:45	Lunch
1:30	Poster Session
3:00	On the structure of NP in Serbo-Croatian: Evidence from binding	Miloje Despic University of Connecticut
3:30	Interpreting Contrastive Constituents in Russian by Mono- and Bilingual Speakers	Irina A. Sekerina City University of New York
4:00	Embedded Complementizers and the Russian Dative of Obligation	Hakyung Jung Harvard University
4:30	Coffee Break
4:45	Interface constraints and frequency in Russian compound stress	Maria Gouskova and Kevin Roon New York University
5:15	The Emergence of the unmarked and template mapping in Russian truncation	Julia Bordeaux University of Texas at Austin
5:45	Invited Talk: Tone and stress in prominence based prosodic systems	Draga Zec Cornell University
8:00	Informal gathering at the GPSCY lounge

Saturday, May 10, 2008

9:15	Breakfast
9:45	Invited Talk: Latent consonant harmony in Russian: Experimental evidence for agreement-by-correspondence	Alexei Kochetov University of Toronto
10:45	Coffee Break
11:00	Trills and palatalization: Consequences for sound change	Darya Kavitskaya Yale University
11:30	The prosody of second position clitics and focus in Zagreb Croatian	Kristine Yu University of California, Los Angeles
12:00	Prosodic boundaries and the behavior of monosyllabic Czech prepositions	Scott McClure Yale University
12:30	Lunch
2:15	The morphological make-up of nominalizations in Serbian	Monika Basic University of Tromso
2:45	On two types of Wackernagel cliticization in Slavic	Krzysztof Migdalski University of Connecticut
3:15	Exposing the Russian verbal complex via evidence from prefixation and verb phrase ellipsis	Vera Gribanova University of California, Santa Cruz
3:45	Coffee Break
4:00	Where Czech meets Chinese: The case of modal existential wh-constructions	Radek Šimík University of Groningen
4:30	On the selective wh-island effect	Zeljko Boskovic University of Connecticut
5:00	Phonologically null licensors of negative concord items in the syntax of Russian, Serbo-Croatian, and Spanish	Natalia Fitzgibbons University of Connecticut
6:00	Reception at the Kline Tower Cafe Performance by the Yale Slavic Chorus

Sunday, May 11, 2008

9:15	Breakfast
9:45	Backwards pronominalization in Russian: A syntactic account	Svitlana Antonyuk-Yudina, John Bailyn Stony Brook University
10:15	Obviation in Russian and Polish subjunctive clauses	Luka Szucsich Humboldt-University
10:45	A case against 'defective' tense in Bulgarian	Anastasia Smirnova The Ohio State University
11:15	Coffee Break
11:30	Invited Talk: Evolving syntax: Small clauses, subjacency and some compounds	Ljiljana Progovac Wayne State University
12:30	Business Meeting

Posters

Case and Agreement Feature Uniformity: The Multiple Probe Account	Christopher Becker University of Michigan
Question formation by Russian-speaking Children	Jodi Reich, Scott McClure, Maria Babyonyshev, Elena Grigorenko Yale University
To the Discussion of Quantifier Scope in Russian	Svitlana Antonyuk-Yudina SUNY Stony Brook
V-initial tendencies of Bulgarian: An (EPP) V-Feature Account	Mila Tasseva-Kurktchieva, Stanley Dubinsky University of South Carolina
Russian Echo Questions	University of Connecticut