Other Professional Experience

Consultant, THE WORLD BANK, 1818 H Street NW, Washington DC 20433

Development Economics Research Group (05/99 - 06/00).

As a consultant to the World Bank’s Research Department, I worked on the DECRG Project on “The Economics of Civil Wars, Crime and Violence,” conducting research on the determinants of civil war initiation, termination, and duration; ethnic conflict and territorial partition; and post-conflict peacebuilding. I developed a large database for the project and managed administrative aspects of the project. I designed and managed the project’s web-site and edited a quarterly newsletter with a 3,000-member subscription.

Poverty Network (May & June 1998)

As a consultant to the Poverty Reduction and Economic Management (PREM) Network of the World Bank, I researched the design and implementation of safety net programs in various countries; drafted a concept paper that defined a research agenda on designing safety nets in post-conflict societies; wrote two topic briefs reviewing the literature on “The Political Economy of Safety Net Programs” and “The Interaction Between Private Transfers and Public Safety Net Programs.”

Visiting Scholar, Johns Hopkins SAIS, International Economics Department (1993-94)

Research on foreign direct investment and backward linkages in industrial production.

Research and Teaching Fellow, Johns Hopkins SAIS, International Economics Department (1992-93)

Full-time research and teaching at the SAIS International Economics Department. Taught technical review sections for masters-level courses in International Monetary Theory; assisted students with the writing of balance of payments reports for various countries; conducted an analysis of Surinam's infrastructure and economy; helped design two seminars on Economic Development.
