

-- PLEASE POST --

Carnegie Endowment for International Peace Junior Fellows Program

Each year, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace holds a rigorous national competition to select approximately 8-10 graduating seniors to serve as research assistants. They are matched with senior associates – academics, former government officials, lawyers and journalists from around the world – to work on a variety of international affairs issues. Junior Fellows have the opportunity to conduct research for books, participate in meetings with high-level officials, contribute to congressional testimony and organize briefings attended by scholars, journalists and government officials.

Junior Fellows spend one year (beginning August 1st) at the Carnegie Endowment in Washington, DC. Positions are full-time and include a salary and benefits package.

2010 – 2011 Projects

- Democracy/Rule of Law – Political Science background preferred.
- Middle East Studies – Native or near-native Arabic language skills essential.
- Nonproliferation
- South Asian Studies – Strong math skills required in addition to background in international affairs or political science.
- Energy and Climate – Quantitative skills required.
- Chinese Studies – Mandarin Chinese reading skills a huge plus.
- Russian/Eurasian and Central Asian Studies – Excellent Russian language skills required.
- US Role in the World

For more information, contact:

Designated Nominating Official or

Visit www.CarnegieEndowment.org for a list of designated nominating officials and an FAQ about the program.