Fall 2014 Yale University Women’s Organization Study Series
International Film Series

Wednesdays, October 1, 8, 15, 22, and 29, 10:30 – 11:30 am
Yale - West Campus, Conference Center

October 1-Dudley Andrew, R. Selden Rose Professor of Film and Comparative Literature. His publications include work on French and world cinema and literature. Professor Andrew will share with us his current work on East Asian cinema in a presentation tentatively titled “Films that Haunt Asia’s Rise: The Ghost Genre in the Megacity.”

October 8-John Williams, Assistant Professor of English and Associate Director of Undergraduate Studies at Yale, will play off of Professor Andrew’s comments, and discuss the American appropriation of Asians in films such as the Charlie Chan series and the concept of “others” in American film.

October 15-Katie Trumpener, Emily Sanford Prof of Comparative Literature & English, will present an overview--focusing the first half on Scandinavia, and the second half on Eastern Europe. She’ll explore continuities between Scandinavia in 1900 and the intense Bergman/Dogma tradition and then move on to the leftist filmmaking in the 20s in Eastern Europe, and what happened under Communism, an ambitious project rich with possibilities.

October 22-John MacKay, Professor Slavic Languages and Literature, Film Studies & Department Chair, will discuss his work on Russian cinema.

October 29-Michael Kerbel, Director of the Film Studies Center at Yale. will close our series with a discussion of the immense influx of international films 50 years or so ago -- and the great influence of the French, Italian and British films.
